IMMEDIATE OPERANDS

ABSTRACT

5   A programmable processing system includes a first processor for executing a first portion of an instruction, a second processor for executing a second portion of the instruction, where the second portion of the instruction is interpreted by the first processor as an extension to an

10   immediate operand field included in the first portion of the instruction.